GRADUATED
ACCOUNTABILITY

“With AIR, I know our participants have access to their appointment calendar at all times. Furthermore, our case managers and field supervision officers can also input automated event reminders. Since we started using AIR, we have seen improved attendance at treatment meetings, and increased compliance with field supervision.”

Jennifer Fabbri, Program Director
Colquitt County Treatment Court, GA

Juvenile supervision programs often put a great deal of effort into keeping youth out of jail and in the presence of their family and support systems. To be successful, agencies need tools that help keep their youth engaged and make it easier to support them through the program.

Corrisoft's AIR program offers a spectrum of smartphone-based activity management solutions that enable agencies to proactively communicate with their youth.

Each juvenile on the AIR program gets a customized smartphone, which gives case managers the ability to interact with them in a way that is both comfortable and preferred. In addition, the phone serves as a tool the youth can use to manage scheduling and other daily behaviors.
